

Ecology charter BeCook!

Respecting the environment

BeCook! attaches great importance to the sustainability of the environment. That's why the ecology, avoidance of food wasting, resources, energetics and our cleaning products are part of our values that make up the identity of our company.

Therefore, in collaboration with our clients and partners we guarantee the respect of the following principles:

1. Ecology as priority for our company

Including the ecological aspect among the main priorities in the daily management of the company and our clients. In particular, informing our clients about the sustainable use of the facilities and materials in our spaces.

2. Stakeholder formation

The company provides their clients with coaching programs on safe techniques and practices as well as hygiene rules according to the AFSCA standards and the optimized use of different resources.

3. Evaluation of our business

Evaluating the impact on our environment before starting up a business or a new project.

4. Products and services

Ensuring that our clients and partners design and deliver products and services that do not impact the environment, and that are optimally efficient with respect to energy consumption, raw material use and transportation.

5. Use of transport and local raw materials

Our company encourages clients and partners to integrate the use of local products in their business and use local suppliers or subcontractors.

6. The research and development

We are committed to evaluating and improving our work practices and processes with our clients in order to limit the waste emissions associated with their business. Adopting new technical knowledge on our business and proposing it to our stakeholders through our coaching sessions.
